Overview and Outlook

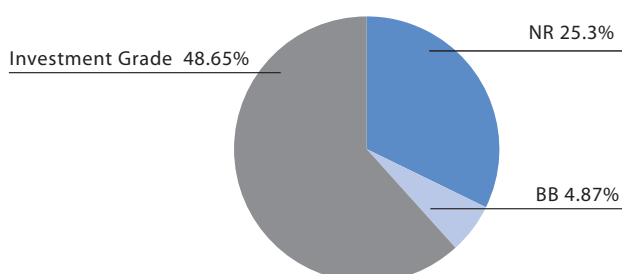

In the midst of yet more global financial market turbulence, your fund returned 0.30% in June. As a result of renewed fears of a global economic slowdown coupled with the surge in commodities, credit markets have come under renewed pressure. With respect to the region, a backdrop of record oil prices and solid corporate profits have made regional credit markets an attractive arena. Hence, in spite of such global instability we are confident that our focus on high quality regional credits will enable the fund to take advantage of a possible upturn in performance in the second half of 2008.
